The Latest Finds

floral look found on backpacks and handbags is all about color while the floral motif is folksier and more symbolic on shopping bags. On pumps, it's a more arabesque pattern and gives in to a more essential, Japanese flavor for plastic boots. It's all about pure graphics for sneakers and open-toe shoes. There's even a brocade look though its opulence takes itself a bit less seriously thanks to a powder pink pom pom on the toe of the shoe. Nature is always open to modern interpretations and combinations of materials, and now designers are once again using it in their designs, marking another victory for "green power," which bewitches with its unmistakable charm as part of another major trend.
